

LOCKHEED P-38 LIGHTNING

Considerable confusion exists over P-38 identities. When purchased from military disposals in the early post WWII years, the USAAF serial number and Lockheed c/n was quoted on the Bill of Sale. Subsequent research reveals that those sold from Kingman AZ often quoted a mis-matched c/n, probably based a listing that seems to contradict the official company Lockheed number/USAAF serial tie-ups. This dubious c/n was then given to CAA as part of the registration paperwork, and accompanied the aircraft for its civil life. Because P-38s were delivered without a Lockheed manufacturers plate, it can not be easily clarified.
